Morphogenesis Inc., host to the White House Cancer Moonshot Summit in Tampa Bay, hopes to give voice to thousands through its online event

Tampa, Fla. (June 27, 2016)- The Vice President of the United States has called together the entire cancer community—researchers, doctors scientists, philanthropists, advocates, patients and survivors for the Cancer Moonshot Summit on June 29, 2016. The goal of the Cancer Moonshot Summit is to double the rate of progress in cancer prevention, diagnosis, treatment and care over the next five years and to ultimately end cancer as we know it. Morphogenesis, Inc. will host one of hundreds of summits around the country in conjunction with the Cancer Moonshot Summit held in Washington, DC.

“We are hoping to provide a conduit for everyone in the Tampa Bay area who has something to say and something to contribute to the White House initiative through our online hosting format of the event,” says Dr. Pat Lawman, CEO of Morphogenesis. “We believe that it will take everyone joining together if we are going to confront the global epidemic that is cancer. Together we can make a difference.”

The Cancer Moonshot Summit will focus on “...making the most of Federal investments, targeted incentives, private sector efforts from industry and philanthropy, patient engagement initiatives, and other mechanisms to support cancer research and enable progress in treatment and care.”

Tampa Bay biotech company, Morphogenesis Inc., has developed a breakthrough cancer immunotherapy treatment that forces the immune system to recognize, target and kill cancer cells present in a patient’s body. “We are honored to be hosting the Cancer Moonshot Summit and will be sharing some of the exciting things going on with our immunotherapy during the event,” said Dr. Michael Lawman, President and Chairman.

As Vice President Biden has said, “The Moonshot cannot be achieved by one person, one organization, one discipline, or even one collective approach, solving the complexities of cancer will require the formation of new alliances to defy the bounds of innovation and accelerate the prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and — ultimately — a cure. It’s going to require millions of Americans speaking up and contributing what they’re able. That’s what the Cancer Moonshot Summit is all about.”

Morphogenesis will bring out another important aspect in the fight against cancer, and that is the fact that people are not the only ones who get cancer. Through its wholly owned subsidiary, Veterinary Oncology Services, veterinarians nationwide have used their breakthrough technology for over five years to treat hundreds of cats, dogs and horses with no reported side-effects. “Our mission is to repeat this success with humans,” comments Dr. Michael Lawman.

Anyone interested in participating in Tampa Bay Cancer Moonshot Summit can attend at Christ the King Catholic Church (821 S Dale Mabry Hwy Tampa) or participate online @ Morphogenesis Cancer Moonshot-Tampa Bay. The Summit will start at 9:00 am on June 29, 2016. For more information, visit www.morphogenesis-inc.com/cancermoonshot
