

Alex Aller, PhD

Director of Business Development

Alex received his Ph.D. from the University of Florida in 1997 and worked in cancer drug development at Southern Research Institute in Birmingham, AL, the Goodwin Institute for Cancer Research in Fort Lauderdale, FL and at BioMune, Inc. in West Palm Beach, FL. His primary focus has been developing systems to quickly and efficiently determine potential therapeutic efficacy of novel treatment regimens. As Director of Cell Biology and Immunology at SRI, he worked closely with multiple industry and academic partners to determine technologies that should be employed to obtain desired data outcomes. These ranged from major pharmaceutical companies such as Eli Lilly and Pfizer to small individual companies wishing to prove concepts. As Executive Director of the Goodwin Institute for Cancer Research, he was responsible for all phases of operation including scientific direction, obtaining funding resources and personnel management.
